

Current Available DAVA Services - 07490-038-170

- Nelson and Jeridith are still operating as a 24/7, 365 telephonic support for anyone needing help navigating a violent situation.
 - This includes initial reports, safety planning, information/resources, etc.
 - We are also happy to discuss hypothetical situations if a victim is not ready to come forward with a full allegation.
- We are able to meet victims in the emergency department for emergencies only.
- Restricted reporting options available.
- Please note that the off-base emergency shelters that typically work with Americans are all currently at full capacity.

- If a victim feels unsafe, the best course of action is to first call the police (911 on base, 999 off base) and then the DAVA.
- The victim can also appear in person to the emergency department or security forces.
 - Please note that if the victim provides a statement to security forces, then restricted reporting is no longer an option.

- Additional resources
 - The National Domestic Violence Hotline (<https://www.thehotline.org/>).
 - The UK Domestic Violence Hotline (<https://www.nationaldahelpline.org.uk/>).
 - For those involved in a sexual abuse situation, please see Rape, Abuse, Incest National Network (<https://www.rainn.org/>).

 While these resources are definitely an option, I want to emphasize that DAVAs are still available for any questions/concerns and that FAP is taking maltreatment referrals.
